

AAGIE Owners Meeting

Water Conservation

March 10, 2010
6pm-8pm

No cost for AAGIE
Members

Water represents a significant expense in multifamily operations and it is an expense that will continue to grow over the foreseeable future. You all know that California is facing a water crisis right now, but do you have any idea how widespread this problem is and how long it might last? Bill Moseley, of California Utility Billing Services, will share information about the water shortage, what is causing it and what you can do to build a strategic plan that will not only help your bottom line but that will also aid our global community. Topics will include:

- Water Awareness and Advocacy
- State Legislation – a balancing act of increasing water supply and decreasing water demand.
- Where is the water going? – a look at typical multifamily use, both inside and outside the apartment.
- Should you replace plumbing and irrigation hardware or try to change the behavior of staff and tenants to encourage more conservation?
- What do these solutions cost and how much do they save?
